

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An interactive card assembly includes a card and an electronically readable storage device designed for interactive connection to the Internet, the card and the storage device having information with a common theme and the storage device having stored information capable of connecting on the Internet with predetermined homepages having the common theme. A method for presenting Internet addresses and connecting to the homepages represented by the addresses using the elements of the interactive card assembly is described.